Virginia Inventor to Exhibit “Amazing Pivot Pushup 7 (APP7)” at America’s Largest Invention Show

PITTSBURGH... InventHelp’s INPEX®, America’s Largest Invention Trade Show, announces that Dwayne Royster, from Norfolk, Va., has invented a unique fitness equipment concept for a total body workout. This invention will be exhibited at INPEX® 2008, June 11-14, in downtown Pittsburgh.

Some of the fitness equipment today can put undue strain on your body. If you’re not a professional athlete you’re likely to throw your back out, pull a muscle or definitely not try “that” again. One inventor thought of an idea for all fitness levels. The “Amazing Pivot Push 7 (APP7)” uses a wobble ball concept that has rotation, is height adjustable and an incline/decline feature for a total body workout. Best of all, the APP7 is lightweight for easy storage.

The APP7 consists of plastic materials. The invention would measure 4”-10” in height and feature a square shape. A user would achieve a versatile workout by using this fitness apparatus and would not have to have optimum fitness endurance as this device is for all fitness levels.

The inventor was inspired to think of his invention because of his own fitness routine. “I became unchallenged after several months of my fitness routine,” said Royster. “One day I came across empty large tomato cans and thought I’d incorporate them into my pushup routine. The result was that it gave me an intense work out and that gave me the idea for my invention.”

Mr. Royster is exhibiting at INPEX® with the hopes of finding a manufacturer, distributor and venture capitalist.

INPEX®, The Invention Show, is a unique trade show that showcases new products and innovations that are available to business and industry to manufacture, license or distribute. As part of the tradeshow, The Invention Show sponsors INPEX® Inventors University™, a series of seminars, presentations, and panel discussions to provide information that inventors may find useful in pursuing their ideas. This year, INPEX® will be held at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in downtown Pittsburgh, the world’s largest “green,” environmentally-friendly building.
