Arizona Inventor to Exhibit “Bodpockets”, “Footpadz” and “Handpadz” at America’s Largest Invention Show

PITTSBURGH... InventHelp’s INPEX®, America’s Largest Invention Trade Show, announces that Perriann Holden, from Prescott, Ariz., has invented a trio of accessories a person could use at a public pool or gym. These inventions will be exhibited at INPEX® 2008, June 11-14, in downtown Pittsburgh.

The “Bodpockets” would provide people with a secure, waterproof way to store valuables such as money, keys or credit cards when they swim or play sports. For protection of a different kind, the “Footpadz” could offer a more comfortable alternative to water shoes or sandals while still shielding the sole of the foot. And for the hands, the “Handpadz” would eliminate the need to wear sweaty, constricting gloves when engaging in an activity such as weightlifting, golfing or cycling.

Measuring 3-3/4 inches high and 2-3/8 inches wide, the Bodpockets would consist of disposable envelopes with adhesive backs that a person could place their valuables in and secure to an area of the body. Also disposable, the Footpadz would be sole-shaped cushions that attach to the bottom of a person’s foot with an adhesive. Ideal for use at a public pool or hot beach, the pads also could feature treads to prevent slipping. Similar in design and function to the Footpadz, the Handpadz would instead attach to the hands and incorporate grips to help an individual hold onto a baseball bat or golf club. Like the other inventions, after each use the Handpadz could be thrown away.

The inventor came up with the Bodpockets, Footpadz and Handpadz based on her personal experiences at the pool and gym. “I designed the Bodpockets so I didn’t have to hide my money and keys under a towel when I went swimming,” she said. “Using the same technology, I created the Footpadz because I loved going barefoot, but hated the little injuries I’d get on my feet. And the Handpadz were just an extension of that idea, which I use all the time for weightlifting.”

Holden is exhibiting at INPEX® with the hopes of finding a licensee or venture capital.

INPEX®, The Invention Show, is a unique trade show that showcases new products and innovations that are available to business and industry to manufacture, license or distribute. As part of the tradeshow, The Invention Show sponsors INPEX® Inventors University™, a series of seminars, presentations, and panel discussions to provide information that inventors may find useful in pursuing their ideas. This year, INPEX® will be held at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in downtown Pittsburgh, the world’s largest “green,” environmentally-friendly building.
