Record Number of Consumer Brands Reviewing Inventions at InventHelp's INPEX® 2011

PITTSBURGH...InventHelp's Invention and New Product Exposition (INPEX) is pleased to announce more than 200 consumer brands will be represented during private product searches at INPEX® 2011, America's Largest Invention Trade Show. INPEX® will offer product searches to inventors from well known companies like SkyMall®, Tupperware®, Clorox®, Procter & Gamble, Church & Dwight, Johnson & Johnson, Reckitt Benckiser, Stanley Black & Decker, Schroder & Tremayne Inc., Hampton Direct and OXO.

INPEX® will once again welcome inventors from across the United States and internationally, who will showcase inventions, new products and innovations available to license, market or manufacture. INPEX® will be held June 14-17, 2011.

Last year, more than one thousand companies utilized INPEX® as a venue to look for new and innovative products to add to their existing product lines. "We are very excited to see many well-known companies at INPEX® such as Johnson & Johnson Consumer Companies and Stanley Black & Decker conducting product searches at the show. Together, these companies represent more than 200 national brands, the largest number to ever attend an invention show. Corporate America has never been more interested in inventions," said Nicole Hait, Trade Show Director.

INPEX® will take place June 14-17, 2011 at the Monroeville Convention Center, just twenty minutes from downtown Pittsburgh. If you are an inventor and are interested in presenting your invention or new product to one of the above companies, please visit www.inpex.com or call 888-54-INPEX to speak with one of our sales representatives. Don't miss this opportunity to exhibit at America's largest invention trade show.
