Arkansas Inventor to Exhibit “GoateeSaver™” at America’s Largest Invention Show

PITTSBURGH... InventHelp’s INPEX®, America’s Largest Invention Trade Show, announces that Scott Bonge, from Little Rock, Ark., has invented a shaving device for goatees. This invention will be exhibited at INPEX® 2008, June 11-14, in downtown Pittsburgh.

Men with goatees know how frustrating it can be to get their goatees symmetrical. With the GoateeSaver™, a man can easily shave his goatee in a very uniform, symmetrical way each and every time. The product provides a smooth and accurate surface for the user to use to guide their razor, and eliminates having to spend long amounts of time in front of the mirror trying to get that goatee just perfect.

Made of durable plastic and chrome-plated silicone, the GoateeSaver™ is an adjustable “mask” for the user to wear. To use, a man simply places the GoateeSaver™ over his mouth area, bites down on the mouthpiece, adjusts the mask to his desire, and shaves around the mask. This ensures an accurate, uniform shave each time. The product is currently being sold on www.goateesaver.com. Suggested Retail Price: $19.99.

The inventor was inspired to come up with this idea because of his own goatee. “With my own goatee, I was frequently frustrated at being unable to shave it straight,” he said. “I use the GoateeSaver™ in my own daily grooming routine.”

Bonge is exhibiting at INPEX® with the hopes of finding a distributor or licensee.

INPEX®, The Invention Show, is a unique trade show that showcases new products and innovations that are available to business and industry to manufacture, license or distribute. As part of the tradeshow, The Invention Show sponsors INPEX® Inventors University™, a series of seminars, presentations, and panel discussions to provide information that inventors may find useful in pursuing their ideas. This year, INPEX® will be held at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in downtown Pittsburgh, the world’s largest “green,” environmentally-friendly building.
