Inventors From Around the World to Attend America's Largest Invention Trade Show

PITTSBURGH...For the 24th year, InventHelp's INPEX®, America's Largest Invention Trade Show will host inventors from throughout the United States and numerous countries, June 11-14, 2008 at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in downtown Pittsburgh. For more information about exhibiting or attending this show, call (888) 54-INPEX or visit the web site at www.inpex.com.

Some of the products on display at this year's show will be the Handy Caddy, a golfing accessory that supports clubs in an upright position, the Animal Sounds Whistles, novelty whistles for children that would mimic the sound of an animal and the Traybilizer™, a portable drink holder that securely holds the paper take-out drink holders from restaurants and convenience stores in place while driving.

"INPEX® is an opportunity for inventors to display their ideas, and try to make contacts or receive feedback from other inventors, companies interested in new products and the general public," explained Nicole Hait, Trade Show Director.

Exhibits at INPEX® cover a range of product categories and are in various stages of development. Some exhibits showcase technological advancements, while others feature simple improvements to existing products. Some inventors display sketches or blueprints, and others have an inventory of finished products. INPEX® offers companies a source for inventions and new product ideas.

Attendees include manufacturers, distributors, catalogue retailers, investors and others interested in a broad range of product categories.

Another part of the trade show is INPEX® Inventors University?, sponsored by The Invention Show. The University is a series of seminars, presentations, and panel discussions and will feature this year's keynote speaker "Famous" Wally Amos, inventor of "Famous Amos" Chocolate Chip Cookies. Over the years, Wally Amos has acted in a number of network sitcoms and appeared on hundreds of interview shows, news programs, educational programs and commercials. On the lecture circuit, he addresses audiences at corporations, industry associations and universities with his inspiring "do it" positive attitude. For a complete list of seminar speakers go to www.inpex.com.

Exhibitors at INPEX® can also utilize the Resource Center, an opportunity for exhibitors to meet with representatives from a variety of organizations and business professionals. Exhibitors can also check out the three pavilions offered at the trade show, the Intellectual Property Pavilion, the Prototyping Pavilion and the Manufacturing Pavilion. With experts available to answer questions, these pavilions will help assist exhibitors in many different aspects of their invention.

An international jury judges inventions, which are awarded gold, silver and bronze medals, cash prizes, and corporate trophies at the INPEX® awards dinner. Show sponsors for this year's show include Mainland China Direct LLC, Skyline Displays of Pittsburgh and InventHelp®, America's Largest Inventor Service Company. For more information about exhibiting or attending this show, call (888) 54-INPEX or visit the web site at www.inpex.com.
