Healthcare Company to Conduct a New Product Search at INPEX® 2010

PITTSBURGH... InventHelp's Invention and New Product Exposition (INPEX) announces that Omron Healthcare, a leading manufacturer and marketer of innovative consumer healthcare products and medical devices for in-home use in the blood pressure monitoring, fitness diagnostics, thermometry, and respiratory categories will conduct a new product search on Thursday, June 17.

Omron Healthcare promotes clinically proven products that provide health information to consumers and physicians, support positive lifestyle changes and health improvement. Representatives will be at INPEX looking for innovative non-drug therapy devices and in-home diagnostics products to add to their existing line of products which can be found in stores such as CVS, Costco, Sam's Club and Rite-Aid.

Omron is seeking Business-to-Consumer Healthcare solutions for in-home non-drug therapies, diagnostics and testing devices that would target heart health, diabetes care, sleeping well, 50+ and women's health segments. Those who meet their criteria will be required to sign a submission agreement at the show.

InventHelp's INPEX 25th anniversary show will take place on June 16-18, 2010 at the newly constructed Monroeville Convention Center, just twenty minutes from downtown Pittsburgh

If you are an inventor with an invention that fits the above criteria or interested in exhibiting at INPEX®, space is still available. Call 888-54-INPEX to speak with one of our sales representatives. Don't miss this opportunity to exhibit at America's largest invention trade show.
