California Inventor to Exhibit “Piñata Hoisting Device” at America’s Largest Invention Show

PITTSBURGH... InventHelp’s INPEX®, America’s Largest Invention Trade Show, announces that Gerardo Lopez, from Chula Vista, California, has invented an adjustable, stand-alone device for suspending a piñata. This patented invention will be exhibited at INPEX® 2010, June 16-18, in Pittsburgh.

Piñata’s aren’t just for backyard parties anymore! Seeking out the perfect branch on the perfect tree has become a thing of the past. One idea took into consideration the inconvenience and frustrations of childhood piñata parties and thought of an idea called “Piñata Hoisting Device”, which is a solution that stands on its own.

The Piñata Hoisting Device can be adjusted to different heights to accommodate users of all ages. Comprised of aluminum, plastic and rope, the device allows for a party to carry on with the good times and not worry about where to hang the piñata.

The inventor was inspired to think of his invention because of a personal interest. “It’s just difficult to hang a piñata in parks, at home’s or indoors,” said Lopez. “I noticed people needed a good device for this application.”

Lopez is exhibiting at INPEX® with the hopes of finding a manufacturer, distributor, venture capitalist, licensee and an importer/exporter.

INPEX®, The Invention Show, is a unique trade show that showcases new products and innovations that are available to business and industry to manufacture, license or distribute. As part of the trade show, The Invention Show sponsors INPEX® Inventors University™, a series of seminars, presentations, and panel discussions to provide information that inventors may find useful in pursuing their ideas. This year, INPEX® will be held at the newly constructed Monroeville Convention Center in Monroeville, just minutes from downtown Pittsburgh.
