Kansas City Inventors to Exhibit “Shamerrific” at America’s Largest Invention Show

PITTSBURGH... InventHelp’s INPEX®, America’s Largest Invention Trade Show, announces that Kevin Neighley and Christina Scott, from Kansas City, MO, has invented a cleaning, washing and drying towel incorporating the “going green” initiative. This patented invention will be exhibited at INPEX® 2010, June 16-18, at the Monroeville Convention Center in Monroeville, Pa.

The owners of K & C Solutions, a full-service mobile lot washing and detailing company in Missouri, have invented “Shamerrific,” which would enable a user to clean, wash and dry any surface in a more effective and earth-friendly way. When choosing to perform these tasks on any surface, a user would not be exposed to soap or chemicals, rather, a green towel.

This device is unique because of its micro fiber and synthetic chamois material, eliminating any streaks, scratches or residue buildup. Consumers could use the Shamerrific to clean, wash and dry any surface such as a car, motorcycle, boat or even around the house to clean countertops, stoves, dishes and floors. The product is currently on the market and available in all sizes; small $5, medium $10, large $15, industrial $30 and saver package $19.95.

“We were trying to differentiate ourselves within the cleaning, car washing and detailing industry” said the inventors. The Shamerrific has changed the direction of our business and is the greenest and most efficient towel on the market.”

Mr. Neighley and Mrs. Scott are exhibiting at INPEX® with the hopes of finding a manufacturer, distributor, venture capital and importer/exporter.

InventHelp’s INPEX®, The Invention Show, is a unique trade show that showcases new products and innovations that are available to business and industry to manufacture, license or distribute. As part of the trade show, The Invention Show sponsors INPEX® Inventors University™, a series of seminars, presentations, and panel discussions to provide information that inventors may find useful in pursuing their ideas. This year, INPEX® will be held at the Monroeville Convention Center, a brand new facility just minutes from Pittsburgh.
